

An Update from Andrew...

Last week, we welcomed Billy Mynes to our church family! If you haven't met him already, you will want to do so. We also rejoice with the improving health of his wife Cynthia. On Sunday, we started a new series in the book of Revelation, and I am looking forward to journeying through that book together. Tyler Bedwell created an outstanding illustration of the Son of Man in Revelation 1, and I look forward to seeing how those pictures will help us grow in our knowledge of Revelation.

As I type this, preparations are being made for the reception for our Men's and Women's Bible Classes, with both classes kicking off with their first session today. Each year, our elders' wives coordinate and prepare this reception, and it is always a blessing. I am thankful for Judy Pritchett, who will be teaching the Women's Class, as well as the rotation of teachers led by Chad Landman, who will be teaching the Men's Class. If you have never been part of this class before, I hope you will consider getting involved. Childcare is provided, and you will leave encouraged.

Our theme this month is "Service in Him," and we are focusing on our upcoming Give Away Day. If you have never been part of this effort before, you will want to make sure you participate. Every Tuesday night at 6:30, a group will be meeting at the Give Away Day building to help sort and pack boxes, and we need all the help we can get. Our Sack the Pulpit Day is coming up on October 21, and we need to see how many grocery bags we can fit at the front of the auditorium. I think we can pack them all the way across the stage – let's make that happen! And don't forget Give Away Day itself – there will be several needs for workers you will hear about in the coming days.

I always look forward to Wednesday nights, and I think we have another reason to look forward to them as several of our men are offering the invitation each week in our devotional. Tyler Crews did an excellent job last week, and Jason Golden will be leading the devotional tonight. Let's keep working together and growing together!
